

SPONSOR A CANCER PATIENT RAMADAN WITH IMRAN KHAN

RAMAD
Charity N

DONATE NOW

WE HAVE 12,571 SUBSCRIBERS

Invest in Independence
JOIN US TODAY

NEWS

4 hrs ago

Paigham Mustafa on the politics of hate and how Scotland can tackle bigotry

By Paigham Mustafa

COMMENT

Paigham Mustafa was placed under a fatwa by several Scottish mosques 20 years ago

f t in e 1 comment

THE Scottish election campaign is dominated by one big issue – independence. It's the political question that seemingly won't go away as Scotland decides how much we like or don't like living inside the UK.

But I have a particular reason for believing that whatever Scotland decides on

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FA models

Humza Yousaf, the Justice Secretary, said: "Parliament has sent a strong and clear message to victims, perpetrators, communities and to wider society that offences motivated by prejudice will be treated seriously and will not be tolerated."

My own experience of hate is to have been publicly defamed, and my business and health badly affected. Twenty years ago, the "crime" I was charged with by several Muslim mosques in the west of Scotland, was of disparaging the Prophet Mohammed.

It was a baseless and false accusation, without any right of response, and an official written decree, known as a fatwa in the Muslim community, was issued against me and widely distributed.

I was tried and found guilty without being able to defend myself.

As a consequence, my life and those of my family have been hugely impacted. I still receive threats as a result. At the time I was warned not to attend my own father's funeral.

Now that the author of The Satanic Verses, Salman Rushdie, lives in the USA, I am the only UK citizen living under a fatwa.

Let's be clear what that means. To some Muslims, a fatwa represents a quasi-legal and religious decree to do whatever they like against me. Is that not stirring up hatred? Who exactly is the perpetrator, and who is the victim?

In the intervening period, as a Quranic scholar, I have written and published an exposition of the Quran – the book Muslims hold holy. I have also written and spoken extensively of the absolute need for Muslims to follow the true messages in the Quran – messages of peace, tolerance and inclusion between faiths and communities. I have to wonder, therefore, whether incitement to "stirring up hate" doesn't apply within the Muslim faith and whether, therefore, mosques and imams are above the law.

by Taboola

Over 60? Don't Fall For The Myths About Equity Release

WITH TELEGRAPH MEDIA GROUP | SPONSORED

Pensioners in Kinghorn Snap Up New Bluetooth Hearing Aid

COMPARE HEARING AIDS | SPONSORED

I believe that, whatever the result of the Scottish election, politicians of all parties need to re-affirm the importance of the universal values contained in the Quran.

Those universal values of justice, forgiveness and tolerance are there to bring people together as one community, whatever their race, sexual orientation or religion.

2  Neil Oliver to join Andrew Neil's GB News in 'move towards news commentary'

3  Mhairi Black: This is how splitting the pro-independence vote can cost us seats

4  'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

5  SNP plan bridge from Dunoon to Gourock to 'reduce reliance on ferries'

6  This week's top Covid hotspot neighbourhoods in Scotland revealed – check your area

7  Keir Starmer 'out of touch' as 60 per cent of Labour members back indyref2

8  Poll reveals what MPs think about a Scottish independence referendum and the Union

9  Alex Salmond will not meet George Galloway in debate, former FM confirms

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FAC mo els

But it's more than that, because words alone don't add up to positive action. Justice not only needs to be done, but also needs to be seen to be done. However, where Islam is involved, many in authority are fearful of causing offence and the consequences it may bring, as it has done to me and my family.

In the current election campaign, there are not many politicians who will say that hate or the stirring up of hatred should not be a crime.

I have already written to Anas Sarwar MSP, leader of the Scottish Labour Party, to ask him to write to the Glasgow mosques to rescind the fatwa against me. I have not had the courtesy of an acknowledgement, let alone a response.

I will therefore now write to each of the leaders of the main opposition parties to ask for their support and for them to lobby the Justice Secretary, himself a Muslim, to move beyond words to real action.

I was accused, without evidence or right of reply, of "dissent" and "attacking the foundation of Islam". A formal edict was issued with many serious but unfounded accusations.

This false and damaging accusation still stands. So, where is the law to take the perpetrators to task? And where are the politicians to condemn such action?

Democracy starts with us as individuals, and all of us should be equal under the law rather than religious diktat. That gives us the freedom to speak out against bigotry and intolerance and, for me, to promote the true Quranic values of peace and harmony between faiths and communities.

Get involved with the news in your community

Send your stories and photos now

However, my experience is that justice would rather turn a blind eye to anything that treads on religious sensitivity.

Over the years, along with death threats, have come an enormous number of messages of support – many from Muslims who are uncomfortable with the intolerance now being displayed by many fellow Muslims, including Islamic religious leaders.

It is a direction of travel that can only foster more bigotry and more hatred. The real question, and one that I shall be posing to Scotland's political leaders, is whether they actually support the values that they so publicly profess to holding.

Independence shouldn't be the only item on the Scottish election agenda because, whatever Scotland decides, we will still have to live with one another – whatever our differences.

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FA... mo... els

Pensioners in Kinghorn Snap Up New Bluetooth Hearing Aid

COMPARE HEARING AIDS | SPONSORED

People Born 1941 - 1971 Get This Benefit In April

BRITISH SENIORS | SPONSORED

Pensioners in Kinghorn Are Snapping Up These New Bluetooth Hearing Aids

Wanted: People aged 65+ to take part in a free hearing test. We'll find your nearest expert across

Homeowner Over 70? Don't Fall For The Equity Release Myths

YOUR CHOICE EQUITY RELEASE | SPONSORED

How to Outsmart eBay and Pay the Lowest Price for What You Want

JOINPOUCH.COM | SPONSORED

Bowels: A Simple Trick To Empty Them Completely

GUT SOLUTION | SPONSORED

Small Investment of $250 In Amazon Could Turn Into Additional Income

FONATRADER.COM | SPONSORED

Worldwide Premiere: inPixio Photo Studio 11 - Photo Editing made easy!

Erase up to 7 times faster thanks to an improved algorithm.

INPIXIO | SPONSORED

WATCH: David Tennant trolls Tories with Saltire stunt on BBC quiz show

THE NATIONAL

WATCH: Boris Johnson cut off by Commons speaker for failing to answer question

THE NATIONAL

Neil Oliver to join Andrew Neil's GB News in 'move towards news commentary'

THE NATIONAL

Expert says we should be sceptical of poll showing voters don't think indy is important

THE NATIONAL

Alba 'report SNP and Green Holyrood candidates to police' over Twitter comments

THE NATIONAL

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FA
mo
els

NEWS

16th April

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

By Xander Richards | @xanderescribe
Multimedia Journalist

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

CONTINUE READING >

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FACS

Multimedia Journalist

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

CONTINUE READING >

NEWS

14th April

FACT CHECK: Jackie Baillie's claim that money meant for the NHS was used elsewhere

By The National Fact Check
Unionist Fact-Checking and Rebuttal Service

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FACT CHECK

FACT CHECK: Jackie Baillie's claim that money meant for the NHS was used elsewhere

CLAIM "Nicola Sturgeon failed to pass on the full Barnett consequential to the NHS ... so we now face the twin challenges of recovering from the very immediate crisis created by Covid-19, while restoring our NHS after a decade of mounting problems and underfunding" – Jackie Baillie, Labour health

CONTINUE READING >

NEWS

16th April

Mhairi Black: This is how splitting the pro-independence vote can cost us seats

By Mhairi Black | @MhairiBlack
Columnist

TRENDING

'The shame of Scotland': Alex Salmond in blistering attack on BBC executives

'Virtually impossible': Experts pan LibDem plans for a federal United Kingdom

FACT CHECK: Jackie Baillie's claim that money meant for the NHS was used elsewhere

Mhairi Black: This is how splitting the pro-independence vote can cost us seats

FINDING a balance is a challenge for most things in life and it would appear my attempt in my last National column to explain the mechanics of the

CONTINUE READING >

- Subscribe
- AdChoices
- Archive
- Site Map
- Exchange and Mart
- Contact Us
- Newsletters
- Terms of advertising
- Terms & Conditions
- Contributor Terms
- Cookie Policy
- Manage Consent
- Privacy Policy
- Diversity Statement

IPSO
REGULATED

This website and associated newspapers adhere to the Independent Press Standards Organisation's Editors' Code of Practice. If you have a complaint about the editorial content which relates to inaccuracy or intrusion, then please contact the editor here. If you are dissatisfied with the response provided you can contact IPSO here

©Copyright 2001-2021. This site is part of Newsquest's audited local newspaper network. A Gannett Company. Published from its offices at 200 Renfield Street Glasgow and printed in Scotland by Newsquest (Herald & Times) a division of Newsquest Media Group Ltd, registered in England & Wales with number 01676637 at Loudwater Mill, Station Road, High Wycombe HP10 9TY – a Gannett company.